

The following are resources that are available through the Criminal Justice Coordinating Center of Excellence Lending Library that you may borrow at any time.

In addition, Hearing Distressing Voices kits are also available through the Criminal Justice Coordinating Center of Excellence and at additional locations around the state (NAMI, Cuyahoga County, etc.). This training helps mental health and law enforcement professionals understand the challenges that face people with psychiatric disabilities. During the training participants listen to distressing voices through headphones while completing a series of tasks. Afterwards, during the debriefing, even veteran mental health practitioners have reported gaining new insights into the strength and resilience of those with psychiatric disabilities.

If you are interested in borrowing our available resources or a Hearing Distressing Voices kit, please contact Adam Peacock at apeacock@neomed.edu
