Reimagining Campus – CommUNITY Partnerships: Breaking Down the Silos

The Ohio Program for Campus Safety and Mental Health (OPCSMH) is a resource dissemination center promoting suicide prevention, mental health awareness and stigma reduction activities at college campuses across the state of Ohio. Our primary goal is to stimulate collaboration between campus and community stakeholders to develop programs that prevent campus suicide and other violent acts. The ultimate outcome of such collaboration would be an improvement in the mental health status of students, faculty, and staff members on campuses in Ohio. OPCSMH provides grants, education, training and technical assistance.

The OPCSMH is generously funded by the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services (OhioMHAS) and Peg's Foundation.

Bernice Pescosolido, Ph.D.,
M.Phil. M.A., *Indiana University,
Indiana Consortium of Mental Health Services Research, Irsay
Institute for Sociomedical Sciences*

Bernice Pescosolido, Ph.D. is a distinguished professor of sociology at Indiana University and founding director of the Indiana Consortium for Mental Health Services Research (ICMHSR) and the new Irsay Family Research Institute, which targets research in the sociomedical sciences. She is an elected member of both the National Academy of Medicine and the National Academy of Sciences. Trained as a medical sociologist at Yale University, her research focuses broadly on how social networks and culture provide insights into health, illness and healing phenomena. Her research more specifically focuses on four areas — stigma, suicide, health care use and health care systems. Her concerns have spanned local, national and international questions and problems, primarily targeting mental illness.

Her research has been published across disciplinary and general journals, and has been supported by a number of NIH Institutes, the National Science Foundation and private philanthropic organizations. A 2019 article in the National Library of Medicine underscored a long-term, community-based, student empowerment approach as a promising avenue to reduce stigma on campuses, as well as other strategies to incorporate institutional support. She has served as the Vice President of the American Sociological Association and has received several career, teaching and mentoring awards. Most recently, her paper on breaking through data and theory stalemates in suicide research was named the 2020 PNAS Cozzarelli Prize Finalist in Social Science.

AFTERNOON PLENARY PRESENTER

Kelly Davis, M.S., *Mental Health America

Kelly Davis is the associate vice president of Peer and Youth Advocacy at Mental Health America, where she works on the expansion of peer support and young adult leadership. She is passionate about lived experience-driven programs, policies, organizations, and research. Kelly has been awarded the Disruptive Innovator Award by the National Association of Peer Supporters and the National Peer Leader of the Year Award by Peerocalypse. She is a certified yoga teacher and holds a certificate in Applied Positive Psychology from The Flourishing Center. Kelly and her work have appeared in the New York Times, Teen Vogue, NBC Nightly News, NPR, and the White House. She recently earned her master's degree in nonprofit leadership at the University of Pennsylvania where she served as a research assistant in the Perelman School of Medicine studying lived experience perspectives of inpatient psychiatric units. She is currently pursuing a certificate of specialization in mental health leadership from the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health.

AFTERNOON PLENARY CO-PRESENTER

Rei Scott, AAS, *Executive Board Member of Students, Students with Psychosis; Ohio State University

Rei Scott is an executive board member of Students With Psychosis, a nonprofit that empowers students and advocates living with psychosis worldwide through community building and collaboration. He currently serves as VP of Programming and VP of Management for the organization.

He has spoken at several conferences and events for SWP, including South Southwest MHTTC's First Episode Psychosis Conference and Tennessee Association of Mental Health Organizations' Early Psychosis Conference in 2022. Rei is also a social work student at Ohio State University with an AAS in Social and Human Services. He is currently in the process of completing peer specialist training. He has served on several other boards and councils, including Mental Health America's Young Mental Health Leaders Council. As someone who is trans, disabled, first-generation, and Jewish, he is very passionate about the lived experience perspective and the inclusion of minorities and intersectional identities in mental health research and resources. He is especially interested in peer support and art as vehicles for change.
